F4E Market Analysis and Techno Transfer Group

 Description (Please describe what you are offering / looking for. If related to a specific Call for Tender or Business Opportunity with F4E or ITER IO please indicate the name and reference)

KRP Mechatec GmbH is an engineering services provider specialized in structural and thermal tests and analyses in the field of space, aviation, fusion research and other high-tech industries. With our in-house supply of liquid helium (LHe) we are able to cool samples down to 4 K. Our test infrastructure includes multiple vacuum chambers, thermal chambers, a universal testing machine, and a shock table. We specialize in the development and operation of custom test setups to meet exceptional requirements, while also performing a wide range of standard tests. Our testing capabilities are complemented by our expertise in analyses so that we can verify the results and correlate them with test data. To solve your testing and analysis challenges, please contact info@krp-m.de or the contact details listed in the attached presentation.
